WHAT Faith wants, Faith gets! Tim McGraw has agreed to wife Faith Hill's wishes to sell his fabulous dream estate, believing it will put the couple's 16-year marriage back on solid ground, say friends.

In 2001, the pair shelled out nearly $14 million for two parcels of land to create their own 750-acre Shangri-La a half-hour outside Nashville.

THEY SPENT ANOTHER FIVE years making it Tim's personal playground – complete with a shooting range, stocked fishing hole and a massive barn to hold his huge collection of cars and motorcycles.

But the couple surprised friends in late July by putting the sprawling, Franklin, Tenn., estate on the market for $20 million.

"Considering all the effort they put into making this one of the grandest spreads in Tennessee, it's pretty shocking," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

But a friend of the country superstars confided that the place always felt more like home to 46-year-old McGraw than to his stunning 45-year-old wife and that she wanted a simplified life for herself, Tim and their three daughters Gracie, 16, Maggie, 14, and Audrey, 11.

"Tim just loves the property, but Faith grew disenchanted with it," revealed the friend.

"He's on the road performing concerts up to six months a year, and Faith and the girls are often left rattling around the 12,000-square-foot house and the huge grounds.

"And when Tim is home, he's so busy tending to the place and playing with his big boy's toys she hardly even knows he's back.

"But Faith finally convinced him the huge estate was

ROSEANNE & TOM FIGHTING OVER WEDDING VIDEOS

NINETEEN years after Roseanne Barr's explosive breakup with Tom Arnold, the two are now battling it out on the social media website Twitter. Roseanne's quiet life in Hawaii was recently turned upside down when the 54-year-old funnyman – whose four-year marriage to the comedy queen ended in 1994 – tweeted: "Cleaned out garage and dropped boxes at Goodwill. Hope someone really needs 47 remote controls, 65 phone chargers and my old wedding videos."

Roseanne & Tom's 1990 nuptials

Roseanne, 60, fired back that the videos weren't his to get rid of and added: "What the * is wrong with (you)?"

Arnold immediately returned fire, complaining that she's "so damn serious" all the time.

"I remember when you used to be a comedian," he tweeted, then continued on to say that any proceeds from his donation were going to a good cause. The four-times-married actor also noted that he's "got old wedding videos from several women. Why you think it's all about YOU?"

AFTER THAT, TOM FINALLY CONFIRMED that the videos were not from their 1990 nuptials. Still, the source says: "This opened a new wound for Roseanne. They may have moved on from their failed relationship years ago, but Tom's tweets really got her fired up."

Tim & Faith MOVING OUT!

Why they're selling $20M DREAM HOME consuming them and their marriage.

"It breaks his heart to sell it. The home represented all the success they've had and everything he ever dreamed of while growing up poor in Louisiana."

And this isn't the first time the couple has sold a home at Faith's urging.

The family once made Beverly Hills their main residence as both singers pursued acting careers and their Tennessee mansion was undergoing massive renovation. But they sold their California home in 2010 for $9.5 million.

"Tim got acting work," said a pal. "But Faith's acting career never really took off and she didn't want to be in California any longer."

Insiders say Tim is perfectly content to let his no-nonsense wife call the shots.

After the heavy-drinking star swore off booze a few years ago, he pleased Faith by getting rid of band members who'd been with him since he hit the big time in the mid-1990s.

"Faith feared they were going to lead him back into temptation," disclosed the pal.

"Now, some of Tim's friends think she's too domineering. But he just shrugs and says, 'This woman keeps me away from my own worst instincts.'" At least Faith's latest decision won't leave them without a place to hang their cowboy hats.

The couple also has an upscale luxury home in Nashville and a cozy retreat in the Bahamas.

JENNIFER LAWRENCE BREAKDOWN FEARS

OSCAR winner Jennifer Lawrence feels so overworked and underloved that she's ready to ditch her red-hot Hollywood career before she suffers a nervous breakdown, say friends.

Still just 22, the gorgeous "Silver Linings Playbook" star has done seven films in the past two years alone and is now shooting a sequel to the hit "X-Men" flick. In addition to filming, she's run herself ragged promoting the movies.

"It's all been too much, too soon for Jennifer," a pal told The ENQUIRER.

"She cried one night, saying she barely feels human. She feels like her family and close friendships are slipping away."

In January, Jennifer split from British actor Nicholas Hoult, just two years after they fell in love while co-starring in "X- Men: First Class." The summer, the two reunited while shooting the movie's sequel, and Jen is telling friends she wants both her boyfriend and her life back.

The actress was spotted using recreational substances in Hawaii

Nicholas Hoult

THE ACTRESS FIRST RAISED alarms earlier this year while on location in Hawaii. She was spotted downing wine and smoking what appeared to be marijuana with a pal on a hotel balcony.

"Jennifer says she doesn't have a substance abuse issue but finds it difficult to decompress after her heavy work schedule," explained an insider. Vowing to slow down, the super-hot star is booking no new projects, and sources say she's planning to take at least a year off from the Hollywood grind.

"Jennifer sees the warning signs that she's pushing herself too hard," said her pal. "She doesn't want to get swallowed up by her own career."

'Brady Bunch' star FACES PUTTING VIOLENT KID IN CARE HOME

"BRADY BUNCH" star Susan Olsen is agonizing over placing her autistic son in a home for the developmentally disabled, sources say.

Her only child, 16-year-old Michael, suffers from Asperger's syndrome and has become violent and combative.

"He's having a lot of problems," Susan, who played pigtailed moppet Cindy Brady on the popular sitcom, told a reporter recently.

"He's a really nice kid. He just has anger control issues. In fact, we're looking into residential care for him because he's violent. I've avoided it for years because I couldn't bear the thought of living without him. But I realize that's just plain selfish."

Single mom Susan, 52, says that when Michael flies into a rage, he attacks her, and it's become "impossible" to [illegible] him.

She's struggled to raise Michael ever since he was diagnosed with Asperger's, a form of autism that impairs the ability to connect with others. The actress even signed up to foster abandoned kittens last year to help Michael develop his social skills.

"I thought getting involved in the [illegible] would help," she said on NBC's "Today" show last year.

Michael said: "It's basically like training wheels on a bike for me to get to the same level of compassion and care like other humans."

Meanwhile, reports that Adam Lanza, the 20-year-old shooter behind the tragic massacre at Sandy Hook Elementary School last December, had Asperger's syndrome have prompted experts to consider whether the condition could have played a role in the tragedy.

Dr. Terry Lyles, a noted psychologist on stress and trauma, revealed: "Children with Asperger's have the propensity to become violent, and given the right circumstances and environment, they can exhibit this behavior. It depends on their personality and how supportive the family is."

AS THE ENQUIRER HAS REPORTED, Susan went through a bitter divorce from husband Mitchell Skelly, who claimed that she tussled with their son and squirted Febreze odor remover into the boy's eyes. Susan denied ever intentionally squirting Febreze in his eyes.

Skelly also claimed that Susan was an alcoholic who drank vodka in front of Michael.

"Susan has had her own demons," said a source. "But she dearly loves Michael and wants to do what's best for both of them. It will break her heart to be without him, but she feels she has no choice.

"Michael is more powerful now, and she's even afraid to have him ride in the front seat of her car for fear that he'll attack her while she's driving."

REVEALED!

SECRET ROOM WHERE CATHERINE HIDES FROM MICHAEL

The actor is at the end of his rope, says a source

Frightening reason SCREEN BEAUTY LOCKS HERSELF AWAY

IN a bombshell new development, Michael Douglas and Catherine Zeta-Jones are leading increasingly separate lives – and pals predict divorce may be the only option for the A-list couple.

Bipolar Catherine has admitted that she "tortures" Michael with her "nerves and anxiety," and sources tell The ENQUIRER that she often locks herself inside a secret room to escape him.

"Michael loves Catherine deeply, but he's at the end of his rope with her behavior," said a source.

"It's tearing them apart!"

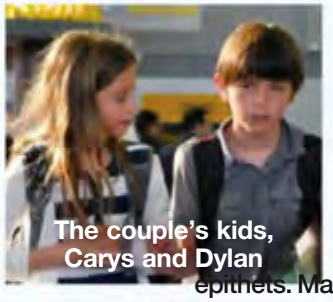

Catherine reveals her hideaway is a closet in an extension that was built onto the family's $5 million mansion in Bedford, N.Y., and sources say she heads there after fighting with her husband of nearly 13 years.

"I go in there and never come out," the Oscar-winning "Chicago" actress, 43, revealed in an interview. "My husband knocks on the door and says, 'Can I come in?'"

The source added: "Catherine feels the room is her 'safe haven.' She can go there when she feels a panic attack coming on or after an argument with Michael and stay until her bipolar episode passes or Michael has depocketed."

Catherine's representative labeled reports of Zeta-Jones and Douglas' troubled marriage and her hiding from Michael as "ridiculous and incorrect."

Oscar winner Michael, 68, opened up about his wife's bipolar II disorder while she was in a rehab facility earlier this year.

The couple's kids, Carys and Dylan

"Sometimes you don't think you need any meds at all, and you forget your meds," the actor, who's beaten Stage 4 throat cancer, said in an interview. "Then all of a sudden, you get on a real ride."

Dealing with bipolar disorder can put tremendous strain on a marriage, an expert says. "When a bipolar sufferer's manic phase is in full force, the part of the brain that filters what the person says goes off-line," Dr. Jay Carter, co-author of "The Complete Idiot's Guide to Bipolar Disorder" who has not treated Zeta-Jones, told The ENQUIRER.

"There are just unfiltered, nasty epithets. Many marriages do not survive such intense mood swings."

MEANWHILE, THE COUPLE HASN'T BEEN photographed together since an awards gala in New York City on April 22, and Catherine was on her own at the recent red carpet premieres for her movie "Red 2" in New York and L.A.

Michael has been filming in Fairfield, Conn., and he "probably could have pulled strings to attend at least one of Catherine's premieres," said an insider. "But he didn't."

As The ENQUIRER has reported, the couple – parents of son Dylan, 13, and daughter Carys, 10 – secretly split a year ago in a trial separation, and a divorce could mean an ugly fight over their estimated $300 million fortune.

"Until now, Michael has exhibited a tremendous amount of patience with Catherine," said a source.

"He's been doing it not only out of love for her, but for the sake of their children. Still, there's only so much a man can take."

AFTER 70 YEARS...

SOLDIER'S DYING WISH FULFILLED

Marine Cpl. Thomas "Cotton" Jones was the high school sweetheart of Laura Mae Davis

Former love stumbles across his wartime diary in a museum

MARINE Cpl. Thomas "Cotton" Jones' last wish before he died in World War II was that his diary should go to his high school sweetheart Laura Mae Davis.

Incredibly, Laura Mae found that diary 70 years later at the National World War II Museum in New Orleans!

"I had no idea that diary was there," said Laura Mae, now 90. "I was amazed – moved to tears. Who could have believed it had lasted all these years?"

THE ASTONISHING STORY BEGAN IN 1941 at Winslow High School in Mooresville, Ind., when cheerleader Laura Mae met a handsome basketball player nicknamed "Cotton" for his blonde hair.

They dated through high school, went to the prom together and exchanged class rings.

Before Cotton joined the Marines, Laura Mae gave him a diary with her picture on the back cover. It became his most treasured possession in the grim days fighting the Japanese in the Pacific.

His first diary entry, written while he was a private at Camp Elliott in San Diego, read: "My life history of my days in the U.S. Marine Corps...and most of all my love for Laura Mae for whom my heart is completely filled. So if you all get a chance please return it to her.

"I am writing this as my last life request."

The 22-year-old machine gunner was killed by a bullet between the eyes on Sept 17, 1944, during the U.S. assault on the Pacific island of Peleliu.

A year later, Laura Mae married an Army Air Corps man back home in Indiana.

While she never forgot her first love, who died serving his country, she never heard anything about the diary.

It eventually went to Cotton's nephew, Robert Hunt of Evansville, Ind., who donated the diary and other items – including the class ring Laura Mae had given Cotton – to the War Museum in 2001.

On April 24, Laura Mae visited the museum, hoping to see a display commemorating her first love.

"I figured I'd see pictures of him and the fellows he'd served with," she said.

Instead, she was shocked to find the diary she'd given Cotton decades earlier.

His last entry was written aboard a troop ship on Dec. 1, 1943. He described winning $200 at craps and noted that if he were back home, "Laura Mae & I would really have a wonderful Xmas."

The museum curator let her take a closer look at the diary while wearing white gloves to protect it. Later, museum administrators scanned the diary and mailed a copy to Laura Mae.

"It's so wonderful to have," she said. "One of the best things is how he talks so much about getting letters from his parents and from me. He was a wonderful man. I'll never forget him."

‘PAWN STARS’ BRIDE HIDING DARK SECRET

THE ENQUIRER has discovered that the bride of “Pawn Stars” boss Rick Harrison is hiding a dark secret!

Harrison wed 38-year-old legal worker Deanna Burditt in a star-studded ceremony on July 21, but an ENQUIRER investigation reveals that the brunette beauty is still tormented by her previous union.

“Pawn Stars” boss Rick Harrison (above) married Deanna Burditt

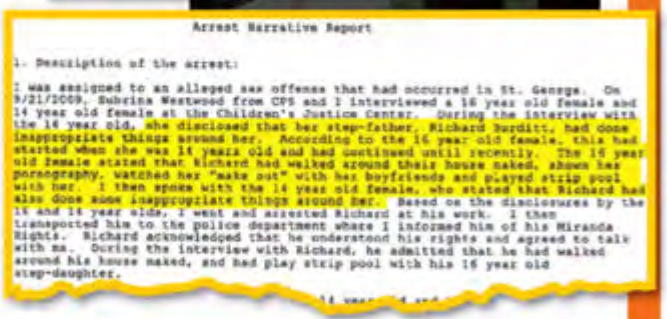

Her sicko ex IS HEADED TO PRISON

HER EX-HUSBAND, RICHARD Burditt, was busted on a variety of sex-related charges in September 2009 – yet the creep is still out on the streets after posting $18,024 in bail!

“Rick is very protective of Deanna,” said a family insider. “She’s the love of his life, and the fact that this sicko is still out there running around free just makes his blood boil.”

Burditt, a former school custodian whose divorce from Deanna was finalized in 2004, was charged with lewdness involving a child, voyeurism, dealing in harmful material to a minor and forcible sex abuse with a teenage female.

Meanwhile, Harrison, 48, recently admitted on a radio show that a “close family member” had something “really bad” happen to her. Turns out that the reality channel star was talking about Deanna. Harrison fumed that Deanna’s 45-year-old ex “hasn’t spent a day in jail because of all the bureaucracy” even though he pleaded guilty to felony counts of forcible sexual abuse and dealing in materials harmful to a minor.

Arrest Narrative Report

1. Description of the arrest:

I was assigned to an alleged sex offense that had occurred in St. George. On 9/21/2009, Sabrina Westwood from CPS and I interviewed a 16 year old female and 14 year old female at the Children's Justice Center. During the interview with the 16 year old, she disclosed that her step-father, Richard Burditt, had done inappropriate things around her. According to the 16 year old female, this had started when she was 11 years old and had continued until recently. The 16 year old female stated that Richard had walked around their house naked, shown her pornography, watched her "make out" with her boyfriends and played strip pool with her. I then spoke with the 14 year old female, who stated that Richard had also done some inappropriate things around her. Based on the disclosures by the 14 and 16 year olds, I went and arrested Richard at his work. I then transported him to the police department where I informed him of his Miranda Rights. Richard acknowledged that he understood his rights and agreed to talk with me. During the interview with Richard, he admitted that he had walked around his house naked, and had play strip pool with his 16 year old step-daughter.

St. George Police Department’s arrest report on Richard Burditt (inset)

Washington County prosecutor Ryan J. Shaum told The ENQUIRER that Burditt will ultimately serve anywhere between one and 15 years in jail, but nothing will be finalized until his sentencing on Sept. 6. And that apparently irks Harrison.

“Rick won’t rest until he sees Richard behind bars,” said the insider. “This whole situation has been extremely distressing for both him and Deanna. After all these years, they just want to see justice finally served.”

The Robertson Family

“DUCK DYNASTY” reality star Phil Robertson, once a poor Louisiana redneck, built a staggering $70 million empire selling duck calls and hunting accessories – and now he’s hauling in another $5 million as author of a sensational tell-all.

HIS NEW BIO “Happy, Happy, Happy” soared past books by Dr. Phil and Facebook boss Sheryl Sandberg to top the nation’s nonfiction best-seller list after selling out the first print run of 300,000 copies – BEFORE it was even released.

But fans of the entrepreneur’s popular A&E show are stunned by his revelations of shocking drug secrets, violent fights and a cheating scandal.

Phil Robertson’s new book, “Happy, Happy, Happy”

After turning his back on a potential pro football career in the 1960s so he could pursue duck hunting, Phil’s life spiraled out of control.

He confesses he stayed “ripped for eight years” on whiskey, beer, marijuana, pep pills and speed. “We got drunk on anything we could get our hands on – running wild and duck hunting,” he writes.

The 67-year-old clan patriarch married his wife “Miss Kay” when he was 16 and she was just 15. Even though they had three young children, Phil admits: “The only thing I seemed to be worried about were how many ducks I could kill when my next drink was coming.”

It got so bad that his beloved wife considered suicide to escape the misery of their marriage.

‘CONJURING’ COUPLE ARE OLD FRIENDS TO THE ENQUIRER

THE horror film “The Conjuring” smashed box office records by raking in over $41 million during its first weekend in theaters – but ENQUIRER readers already knew all about the movie’s real-life heroes, paranormal investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren!

In fact, we’ve featured the Warrens – played on-screen by Patrick Wilson and Vera Farmiga – in several stories.

IN 1981, THE ENQUIRER FIRST reported how the courageous husband and wife team investigated a demon that tried to kill two hor-

Phil Robertson says he turned his life around after rediscovering the Bible

“Kay was at the end of her rope with me,” he writes. “I was always out, partying with my buddies, leaving her alone to raise our three sons...Kay felt her entire life was in ruins and that she had failed as a wife.”

Miss Kay

THEN ONE DAY HE accused her of cheating when she came home late from work.

She reveals in his book, “Phil was calling me every ugly word under the sun...I felt hopeless.

“I went to the bathroom and cried...It’s the only time in my life that I had suicidal thoughts ...I didn’t know how to fix our lives and didn’t know what to do.”

At the age of 28, Phil says he turned his life around after rediscovering the Bible, and he went on to launch his duck caller business in 1973. He eventually parlayed that business into one of the top-rated reality shows on TV, but he may be aiming to duck out of the TV limelight.

When asked by an interviewer how much longer he plans to appear on “Duck Dynasty,” Phil replied: “Not long. But I think it’ll go on without me.”

Meanwhile, he’s found the book-writing business to be pretty simple. Amazingly, Phil spent just 10 hours speaking to a ghostwriter to produce his memoir.

“The next thing I knew,” he says, “somebody told me the book was No. 1 on the best-seller list.”

The gutsy duo eventually discovered the evil spirit came from a voodoo curse that had settled in the family’s oldest child, 4-year-old Jimmy.

In 1989, The ENQUIRER reported that the Warrens experienced one of the most bizarre cases ever. While investigating a house at the West Point military academy, they stumbled upon the spirit of President John F. Kennedy.

Now, the Warrens are back in action on the big screen as they tackle a spectral menace at a Rhode Island farmhouse – but they no doubt feel like old friends to ENQUIRER readers, who have been following their real-life adventures for decades!

Dennis Farina's shocking untold story: Corruption drove him off police force!

Like many of you, I deeply mourned the passing of "Law & Order" star DENNIS FARINA – so let me recount a story Dennis shared with a longtime source of mine 10 years ago over a late supper and drinks at an LA bar called Al's. "Dennis started telling me and an old theater pal why he'd suddenly turned in his real-life police badge – after more than 18 years as a Chicago cop – to become an actor," recalled my source. "He said it was because he could no longer stand to watch how fellow officers squeezed information out of young street punks, kicking and beating them until they confessed to what cops wanted to hear. Dennis said he knew lots of cops who got involved in stolen merchandise, or worked with the mob, and it really sickened him. These policemen were often friends and Dennis refused to turn them in – he hated 'rats' – but he just couldn't stomach the hypocrisy of it all." So when famed director MICHAEL MANN hired Farina as a police consultant for a show he was doing – and offered him a small role in a movie called "Thief" – straight-shooter Dennis was hooked...and the rest is history. (RIP, pal!)

"Mila was supposed to run to Channing's left side while he threw a punch from his right side," said My SpyWitness. "But she got her directions crossed, ran the wrong way – and Channing's fist slammed her cheekbone!" Knocked off her feet, the tiny star hit the ground hard. Horrified, Channing dropped to her side, screaming for someone to bring ice and get a medic. Said the source: "He kept yelling her name over and over, until Mila finally looked up and said, 'Will you please shut up and stop screaming at me!' She'd been knocked out for several seconds, but when medics arrived she insisted she was fine and refused medical attention. She felt a bit woozy after she was helped to her feet, and the director wanted to cancel the shoot – but Mila refused, saying she was afraid her jaw might be too swollen the next day. Makeup people kept applying ice between takes, and Mila was right – next day she was sporting a bruise that had to be covered with heavy foundation." A cheer for feisty Mila, folks...YAAY!

And looking at it like a gal, "The Talk" host SHERYL UNDERWOOD checked out our boy in his daringly low sarong and delivered this heartfelt gut reaction: "I'D HIT THAT!"

■ EAT YOUR HEARTS OUT, BRITISH PRESS! Here's my Royal Baby scoop that every Brit newshound missed: Princess of Our Hearts KATE MIDDLETON – who spent weeks mulling what her "new mum" dress should look like, then brilliantly chose that polka-dotted blue number like the one PRINCESS DIANA wore when she emerged from her labors toting tiny PRINCE WILLIAM – had a top-secret trick up her sleeve! Kate, who'd opted NOT to be told the sex of her child beforehand, covered all her bases (NOTE TO BRIT READERS: That's Yank baseball code; means "prepared for every eventuality") and secretly smuggled in TWO versions of the dotted print dress – one in blue and one in pink (Lois Kean Kate!)

Helluva time for TOM CRUISE after (1) a Scientology scandal erupts when LEAH REMINI defects from the cult after being harassed for asking a simple question ("Where's Mrs. Miscavige?") at Tom's wedding to KATIE HOLMES; (2) Tom's Twitter-slammed by press lord RUPERT MURDOCH, who brands him a top leader in the "creepy, maybe even evil" cult; and (3) the star suffers a devastating blow when MIKE WALKER reveals that he no longer affectionately calls Tom "My Favorite Alien!" AND THEN THINGS REALLY WENT TO HELL: TV's iconic "Family Feud" posed this stunning quiz question: "On a scale of 1 to 10, how normal is Tom Cruise?" So... did Mr. Movie Star rate a "10"? Nope! The No. 1 answer was...1! OOWWW!

I TOLD YA SO! Here's a heartfelt one-finger salute to the countless world news orgs that ripped off my scoop about loopy LINDSAY LOHAN begging for sperm donors after getting the dumb idea that she can turn her troubled life around by giving birth to a BABY!? Anyway, thieving news guys and gals – aka "New York Daily News," London's "Daily Star," "The Times of India" and a gazillion websites – you've got great taste, but not even one of you credited me for the exclusive. BOO-HOO! (Poor Mikey!)

JARRING "GLEE" FLASHBACK! Sad final note on the shocking death of CORY MONTEITH: A well-connected set insider reports that going back to 2010, cocaine – plus marijuana-laced cookies and brownies – were shared regularly by Cory and several of his cast mates. Said the source: "When show execs discovered what was going on, they called an emergency meeting to shut Cory and his fellow dopers down – threatening to fire anyone who was caught doing drugs behind the scenes of the show!"

MELTDOWN

SWEET TALK: Cooling off during a hot day in Manhattan, reality TV beauty Bethenny Frankel – whose new syndicated talk-show debuts this fall – gets her licks in with cute, 3-year-old daughter Bryn.

WELCOME TO HOLLYWEIRD! After lunching with a business associate at eatery Talesai, four-time Oscar nominee ANNETTE BENING was asked by the manager if he could show her something at their sister restaurant next door, Night + Market. Said a source: "Annette happily followed the guy but was puzzled when he showed her a poster on the wall for the 1970 movie, 'The Only Game in Town' starring her hubby, WARREN BEATTY. Then he pulled out a black Sharpie and asked, 'Would you mind signing it?' Totally confused, Annett this poster...I wasn't even in the movie.'" The guy's bizarre reply: "But Mr. Beatty's never been here in person!" Shaking her head as she headed for the exit, Annette said: "We have to wait for him to sign it!? It makes Only in Jollywood, people!

After all the agonizing will-they-won't-they with two-timer KRISTEN STEWART, sulky vampire ROB PATTINSON's suddenly smiling again – swearing he's been brought back to life by a ga-ga-gorgeous mystery model he met wh campaign. Said a source: "This girl's brought Rob back to life! He's trying to keep his romance with his mystery beauty quiet for the time being, but this vampire's on fire. He told me, 'The first time I kissed this beautiful woman, sparks started flying. The chemistry between us is crazy!'" (Blood boiling yet, Kristen?)

CLOONEY, YOU IDIOT! Here's a shocker: GEORGE CLOONEY's tight-knit posse of best buds MATT DAMON, BEN AFFLECK and BRAD PITT are angrily calling him "a fool" for deep-sixing class act/cutie STACY KEIBLER – ruining what they insist could have been the BEST thing in his life! Said a close friend and business associate: "It's no joke – the guys are really PO'd at George. They tried for months to convince their best buddy that he should take that giant leap of commitment and start a family with Stacy – especially after she reached out to them for support. But stubborn bachelor George stood firm, even though his friends literally labeled him an idiot – and predicted he'll wind up a lonely old man. He turned a deaf ear as Matt, Brad and Ben all told him how having children had not only enriched their lives, but shown th love! Now George is suffering from a double whammy: Stacy's gone... and his furious friends all think he's a jerk!"...And how was YOUR week? – with DEBORAH HUGHES

QUICK CHANGE ARTIST: "Brother, can you spare a dime?" seems to be the question on the mind of a frustrated John Stamos as he fiddles with a parking meter on an LA street.

GRANDPA GARTH'S BITTERSWEET BABY

Why country legend HAS MIXED FEELINGS ABOUT NEW ARRIVAL

GARTH BROOKS is overjoyed at becoming a first-time grandpa –but he's also brokenhearted that his daughter is an unwed teenage mom, say insiders.

The country kingpin's daughter August gave birth on July 23 just two months after her 19th birthday, and Garth was thrilled that his new granddaughter arrived healthy and happy.

But the deeply spiritual, 51-year-old superstar is singing the blues that little Karalynn was born out of wedlock, and he may even delay his much-anticipated comeback to keep a close eye on all three of his daughters.

Garth with his daughter August

"GARTH LIGHTENED UP WHEN HE SAW THE baby," revealed a source close to the family. "But he'd been upset with August for getting pregnant at such a young age when he had big plans for her."

In stark contrast to the country star's bittersweet feelings, August's mom Sandy Brooks has been in seventh heaven over the arrival.

Sandy, Garth's first wife and mother of his three daughters, has been locked in a valiant battle with breast cancer since 2006 – and despite the divorce Garth has been there every step of the way, say insiders.

"Sandy has been fighting bravely, but she knows she might not have much time left," confided a friend. "Being able to cradle her granddaughter in her arms is heaven for her.

"She's so grateful that she's lived long enough to see the bright eyes and lovely face of her grandchild."

The baby's mom is the middle child of the all-girl Brooks family that includes daughters Taylor, 21, and Allie, 17. She enrolled at the University of Oklahoma last fall and became pregnant by her high school sweetheart Chance Russell during her first semester, according to the close source.

The two live together and – despite Garth's estimated $365 million fortune – have registered for baby gifts at Walmart and other stores, asking for a $300 baby crib, baby furniture, a stroller and diapers.

Meanwhile, university graduate Garth – who retired from his record-shattering career in 2000 to become a hands-on dad – expected all his kids to graduate college and now he's unsure about August's future, say sources.

But Sandy worries that he may be meddling too much in the girls' lives.

"She told him he can't be their Father Protector their whole lives," disclosed the friend.

Garth, who married country star Trisha Yearwood in 2005, has been edging back into the music scene and even did a long stint in Las Vegas. But his decision whether to record and tour again certainly won't be before his youngest daughter graduates from high school.

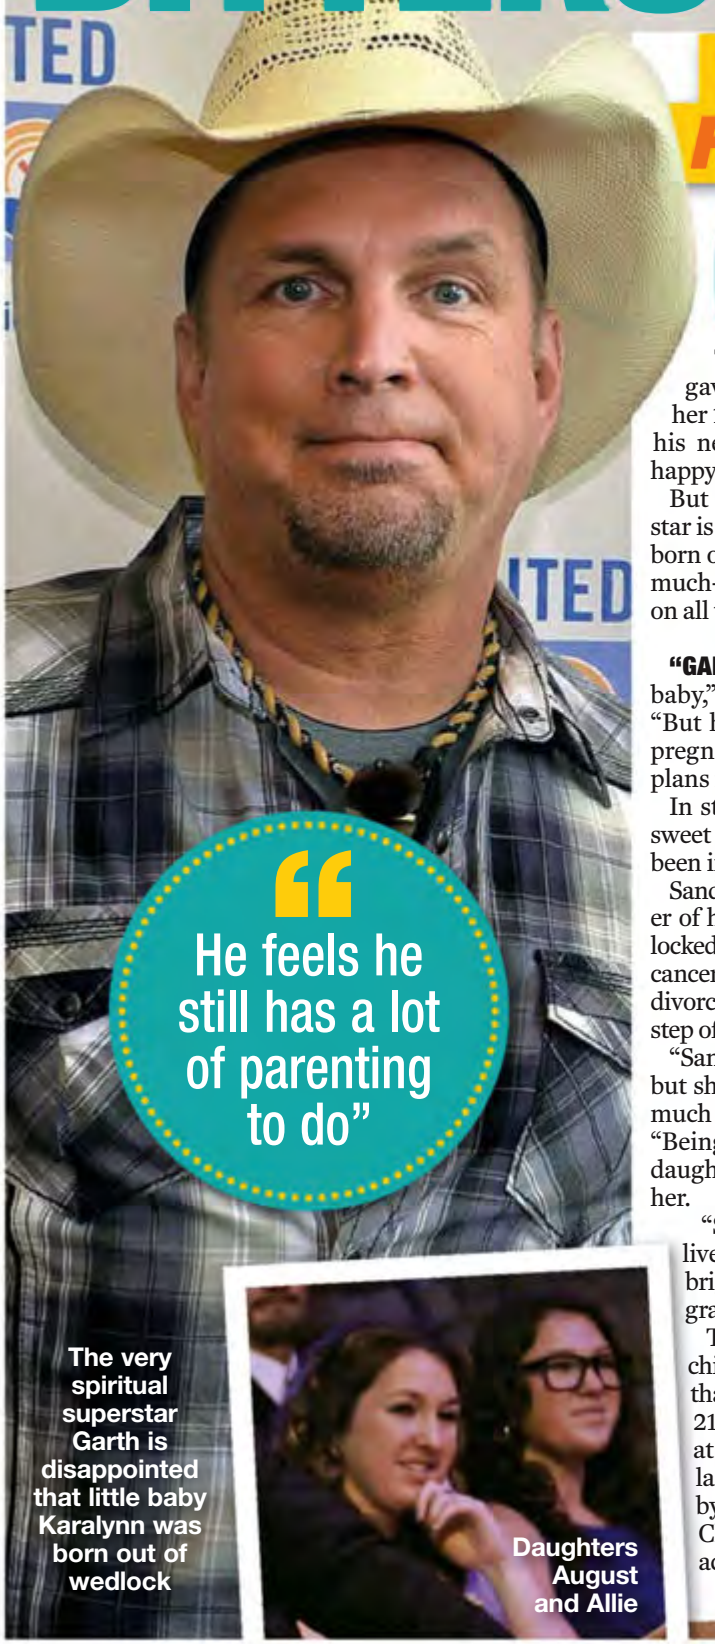

"He's come to see his new granddaughter as an unexpected blessing, but it makes him more doubtful about firing up his career again," said the source. "He feels he still has a lot of parenting to do."

COUNTRY SINGER'S EX TELLS ALL

BRAVE NEW LIFE OF MINDY'S LITTLE BOY

Mindy McCready topped the charts with "Guys Do It All the Time"

Billy McKnight says son Zander is becoming a very happy boy

Seven-year-old FINALLY ON ROAD TO RECOVERY, following McCready suicide

FIVE months after Mindy McCready's tragic suicide, the father of her oldest son has vowed to begin healing the boy's broken heart.

Country singer Billy McKnight now has custody of the couple's 7-year-old son Zander – and in an exclusive ENQUIRER interview, McKnight says he's determined to put the youngster on the road to emotional recovery.

"ZANDER OFTEN ASKS ME, 'DID YOU love my mom?'" McKnight – lead singer of the popular country group Soul Circus Cowboys – told The ENQUIRER.

"I've told him that he was deeply loved by both his mother and me, but we don't focus on how Mindy died. Zander understands what happened and says he knows that his mother's in heaven. I tell him that his mother still loves him and she's watching out for him. Those are the thoughts that Zander needs to hold close."

Zander had been living with a foster family since his mother's Feb. 17 suicide at her home in Cleburne County, Ark. An Arkansas court recently awarded custody of Zander to McKnight, who had a rocky relationship with McCready.

The youngster now lives with McKnight and his wife, music promoter Corey Rena-McKnight, in Florida.

"Zander finally has a real chance in life," McKnight, 47, added. "He's got a new bike and new friends. He's rebuilding his life and becoming a very happy boy."

That's a huge step forward for the youngster, whose childhood with McCready was a wild roller-coaster ride.

By the time Zander was born, McCready's once stellar career – topped by the number one hit song "Guys Do It All the Time" – had already flamed out, and she was spiraling downward.

She was arrested numerous times and attempted suicide three times

A DIFFICULT ROAD

– once while pregnant with Zander. She served two stints in jail for probation violations and publicly battled her drug problems on TV's "Celebrity Rehab with Dr. Drew."

Meanwhile, she and McKnight battled for custody of Zander, and in December 2012 an Arkansas judge awarded her full custody of the boy.

Zander was living with McCready, her boyfriend, music producer David Wilson, and their baby boy Zayne when Wilson committed suicide in their Heber Springs, Ark., home in January. Zander was in foster care when his mother died at age 37 of a self-inflicted gunshot wound on the porch of the same home.

MCKNIGHT NOW ADMITS THAT his own past – including serving jail time in 2005 for assaulting McCready – made it difficult to gain custody of Zander. He's since gone through rehab and has been sober for seven years.

"I've become the man I've always hoped to be, for my son's sake as well as my own," McKnight told The ENQUIRER.

Zander's half-brother, 15-month-old Zayne, is in the custody of McCready's relatives on her father's side, and McKnight said income from McCready's continuing record sales and other royalties has been placed in a trust for the boys.

"While Mindy and I had our issues, we all need to forgive her and find some peace with all this," McKnight said.

"Her legacy is her music and the fact that people enjoyed it."

Valerie Harper MIRACLE

Laughing actress STILL GOING STRONG – despite deadly cancer

MORE than six months ago, doctors told cancer-stricken actress Valerie Harper that she could be dead in three months.

But the 73-year-old "Rhoda" star looked the picture of health on July 28 at California's Del Mar racetrack, where she attended a Lung Cancer Foundation of America fundraiser.

Valerie chatted and posed for photos with about 70 people, who'd donated up to $3,500 to meet her.

Valerie with hubby Tony Cacciotti, and, below, with Mary Tyler Moore

"SHE TOLD EVERYONE not to feel sorry for her and that they should be more concerned with the suffering of people living in Africa," said an attendee. "She also thanked the organization for its hard work and said she was happy to help the cause."

Remarkably, Valerie still seems to have plenty of life left in her, and she credits friends, family and fans for helping her fight the dread disease.

"When doctors called her disease terminal, Valerie laughed and said, 'We are ALL terminal!'" recalled a former co-star of the beloved actress.

"Since then, she's continued to do her best to eat healthy, meditate, pray and do yoga."

While she has both good and bad days, Valerie also benefits from the unconditional love and support of her husband of 30 years, Tony Cacciotti, and their adopted daughter, said the source.

The talented actress – who won four Emmys while co-starring on the '70s sitcom "Mary Tyler Moore" and headlining her "Rhoda" spinoff from 1974 to 1978 – was diagnosed with lung cancer in 2009.

She vowed to beat it. But this past January, doctors told her the cancer had spread to the lining of her brain.

Despite that, Valerie recently reunited with Moore, 76, and their pal Betty White, 91, for an episode of the TV Land sitcom "Hot in Cleveland," which will air Sept. 4.

"Valerie is one amazing woman," said the source.

"She's always had such a positive attitude, and if anyone can beat this deadly disease, it's her."

TV talk-show veteran Ellen DeGeneres has launched a scathing war of words against new kid on the block Kris Jenner!

Kris' self-titled FOX chat-fest debuted on July 15 to stellar ratings, beating out big-name regulars such as Dr. Phil, Steve Harvey, Katie Couric – and even Ellen – in some markets.

Now the normally good-natured Ellen is hopping mad and telling pals that reality star Kris is going to give talk shows a bad name.

Ellen thinks Kris doesn't care about anything except making money and keeping her family in the spotlight, says a source

ELLEN & KRIS JENNER: IT'S WAR!

Kardashian mom SLAMMED BY DAYTIME TALK RIVAL

"SHE'LL MAKE A MOCKERY OUT of talk shows because she doesn't care about her guests," Ellen said, according to a source. "She only cares about herself."

Ellen blasted Kris, 57, for hinting around on Twitter that she'd have her new granddaughter, North (daughter Kim and Kanye West's baby) on the show, then cradling a newborn on camera that turned out to be her stylist's baby.

"There may be some jealousy involved on Ellen's part," conceded the source, "but when Kris popped up on the show with a baby, briefly faking the audience into thinking it was Kim's, it seemed to prove Ellen's point that Kris is only thinking about ratings."

Ellen, 55, is said to also be criticizing Kris for enlisting a guest co-host on every show, with a lineup including Kathie Lee Gifford, NeNe Leakes and Ryan Seacrest.

"ELLEN THINKS THAT KRIS IS using a string of celebrity co-hosts because she doesn't have the personality to carry a show by herself," continued the source. "And she doesn't believe Kris sets a good example for teenage girls, seeing how the Kardashian kids are spoiled rotten."

But animal-loving Ellen's biggest beef with Kris – and most of the Kardashian clan – is a personal one: She hates that they wear fur and buy their puppies from pet shops instead of rescuing.

"Ellen doesn't think Kris cares about anything except making money – and keeping her family in the spotlight," said the source.

HAND IT TO KATE!

NEW mom Kate Middleton has high principles that have served her well but could also cause her to suffer like Princess Diana.

That's what a renowned palm reader declared after examining a photo of Kate's right hand as she left St. Mary's Hospital on July 23 with her baby boy George in tow.

Jim Barker, who runs The Divine Hand Palmistry in Seattle, Wash., noted that the shape of Kate's fingers indicate that while she enjoys the spotlight, she's also emotionally vulnerable.

"HER PINKY FINGER IS distinctively separated from the rest of her hand, meaning she likes to communicate and be out in the public," said Barker. "But her ring finger indicates that she's cautious and emotionally vulnerable.

"She has a very interesting connection between her lifeline and headline. Because there's an 'x' where they meet, there's some conflict between her emotions and her rational decision-making process.

"The biggest danger I see is that Kate's the type of person who could easily crumble if she is forced to do something against her principles.

"Princess Diana was like that – and look what hap-pened to her!"

But another expert, Los Angeles area-based Dr. Sarah Larsen, also looked at the photo and noted that Kate's palm shows she's a "natural born leader" who can "inspire and motivate" others. She's also blessed with a rare "Magic M" at the juncture of her life, head, heart and fate lines.

"That refers to a fortunate life," said Larsen. "Hers is consistent with a great marriage, great wealth and being emotionally vulnerable most of her life."

"Family planning is so important"

BINDI SPARKS TEEN SEX STORM

BINDI IRWIN is turning out to be as daring and bold as her "Crocodile Hunter" dad – the 15-year-old spark plug caused a big stir Down Under by speaking out about giving contraceptives to girls as young as 11.

The spirited daughter of the late Steve Irwin, who brought worldwide fame to his Australia Zoo, is now turning the spotlight on her own crusade – family planning to curb overpopulation on the planet.

ALARMED THAT YOUNG WOMEN IN Third World countries are having more babies than they can feed, Bindi believes the answer could be wider use of contraceptives, even among preteens.

"Girls as young as me or even younger are having kids and that doesn't seem right to me," the passionate teen told an interviewer. "There's such a thing as seven-year implants, so if you had a girl that was 11 years old and gave her the seven-year implant, she wouldn't be able to have kids [family planning] is so important and I feel bad for those who don't have access to it."

A younger Bindi with dad Steve Irwin

Croc Hunter daughter, 15, TALKS BIRTH CONTROL

Bindi's famous dad, who tragically died in a freak accident seven years ago when a stingray barb pierced his heart while he was snorkeling, left her with a love of conservation and a tremendous drive to accomplish her goals.

"He was my living, breathing superhero," she says.

Bindi is already so busy advocating for her causes and traveling with her mom Terri that she has no time for boyfriends.

"I'm sure that will come soon enough," she says. "But at the moment I have friends that are girls and friends that are boys, so why make things complicated?"

FACING 50 YEARS BEHIND BARS...

'HOUSEWIFE' TERESA TERRIFIED FOR KIDS!

She begs Melissa to help

Giudices desperate for way out

"REAL Housewives of New Jersey" star Teresa Giudice and her hubby Joe will flee to family in Italy before facing charges that could send them to jail for 50 years, a friend fears.

On July 29, U.S. Attorney Paul J. Fishman announced a 39-count indictment against the pair, stating that Teresa and Joe defrauded the IRS as well as several banks between 2001 and 2008.

The Giudices are not only facing conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, which carries a maximum prison sentence of 20 years, but also bank fraud, which could tack on another 30 years.

Teresa and Joe might have to give up custody of their kids to Joe and Melissa Gorga (left)

IF CONVICTED, sources say Teresa, 41, and Joe, 43, would have to give up custody of their four daughters.

"If they have to, they'd turn the kids over to Teresa's brother Joe (Gorga) and sister-in-law Melissa," noted a source close to the couple, who added that the Giudices would consider "hightailing it to Italy with the kids" if it looked like they would have to serve more than a few years in jail.

Meanwhile, Joe is facing up to 10 years in prison on unrelated charges after he allegedly used his brother's identity to obtain a driver's license.

In the past, Teresa's biggest beef with Joe had been his wandering eye. But now she has bigger problems, and pals say she's a woman on the verge of a breakdown.

"Although Teresa doesn't criticize Joe in public, she rants and raves about everything at home," revealed the source. "And now their legal problems really have her on the warpath.

"It's like World War III at their place. The irony now is that Teresa and Joe have to present a completely united front. They're in for the fight of their lives.

"It's a matter of either fight....or flight!"

Anthony Weiner begged New Yorkers for a second chance

DISGRACED politician Anthony Weiner picked a real doozy of a woman to engage in a perverse "sexting" relationship as her former boyfriend labels her a bona fide nutcase!

"She's crazy – she's psychotic!" blasts Drew Hanley about 23-year-old sexpot Sydney Leathers, who struck a crippling blow to Weiner's bid to become New York's next mayor by releasing obscene photos the ex-Congressman had sent her.

"WEINER SHOWED SHOCKING judgment by sending X-rated messages to this woman. He's a disgrace to America."

In a bombshell, exclusive ENQUIRER interview, Hanley – who dated Leathers in late 2007 and early 2008 – says she was a spiteful, cocaine-snorting madwoman.

"She nearly ruined my life," charged Hanley, 28. "When I broke up with her, Sydney called my boss and tried to get me fired, saying I was threatening her.

"She also contacted the cops, claiming that I was stalking her. They realized it was totally false and dropped the case."

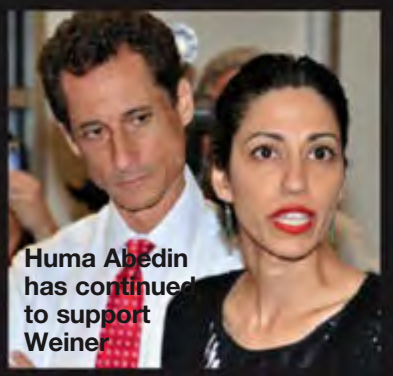

Sydney bared her claws again after Weiner ended their raunchy relationship.

WHO'S CRAZIER... WEIRDO WEINER OR HIS SEXY TEXTER?

Ex-lover tells how kinky brunette caught in new political scandal MADE HIS LIFE HELL

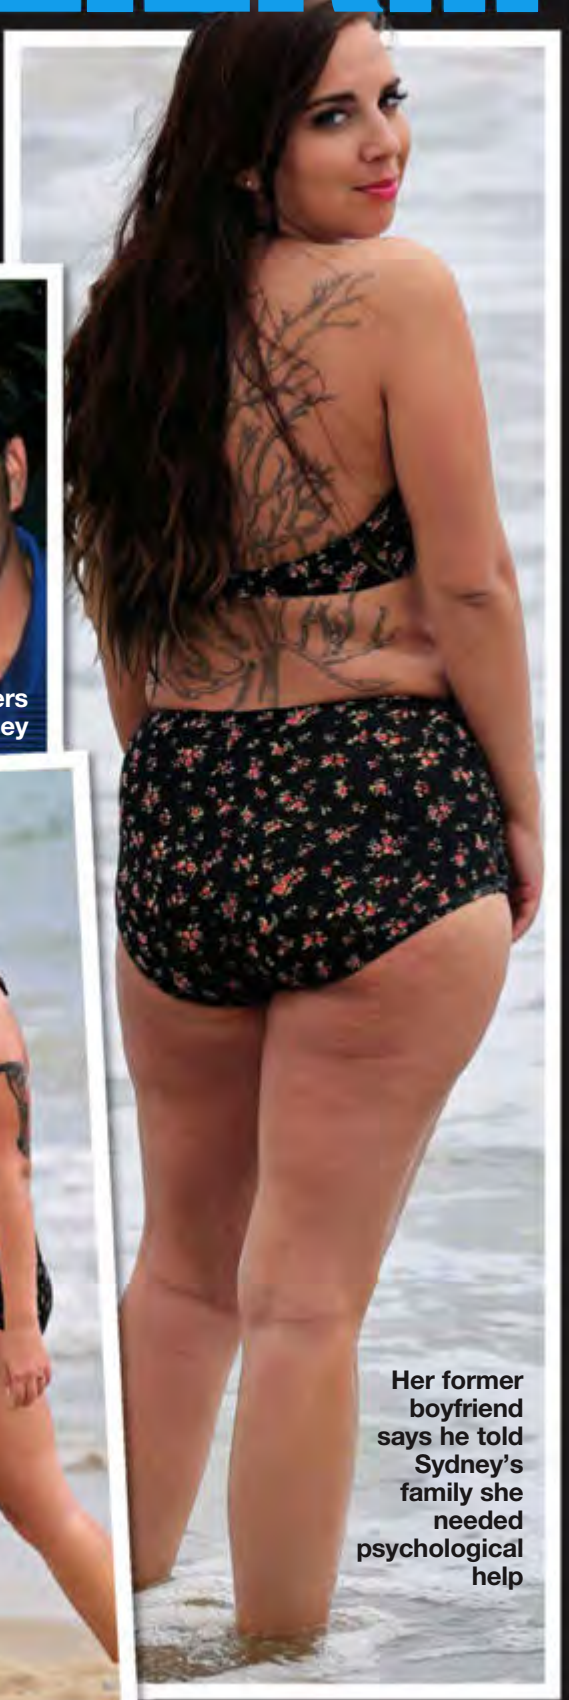

Sydney Leathers and Drew Hanley

Huma Abedin has continued to support Weiner

Her former boyfriend says he told Sydney's family she needed psychological help

She gave the blog TheDirty.com a sick series of sexy texts that Weiner had sent her, including photos of his genitalia.

The revelation instantly turned Weiner into a laughingstock and he plummeted from the top slot in election polls despite the support of his wife Huma Abedin, a former top aide for Hillary Clinton. But his downfall at the hands of Sydney is no surprise to Hanley.

"Sydney was a very disturbed person," he told The ENQUIRER. "She would become depressed and lock herself in the bathroom, cutting herself.

"She was into doing a lot of drugs, especially cocaine. She lived with my brother and me for a few months because she wasn't getting along with her family. I dated her for about a year, but eventually, it just became too much to deal with.

"I told her family they needed to get her psychological help. I guess they never did."

Leathers' representative said Hanley's account of his relationship with Leathers is "ridiculous."

Meanwhile, Weiner, 48, was seen as a rising star in the Democratic Party until he got caught in an earlier "sexting" scandal and was forced to resign from Congress in 2011.

The married dad of one dropped out of the public eye but later re-emerged – claiming he had rid himself of his sex obsession – and begged New Yorkers to give him another chance.

But Weiner had continued indulging in his demented double-life, secretly pursuing Sydney in cyberspace. He ended their relationship in November 2012, at which point she claims he asked her to erase evidence of their high-tech trysts.

"This scandal is history repeating itself, like in the 1990s when President Clinton got caught with Monica Lewinsky and Hillary was the scorned woman," said a source. "Now her aide Huma is the wronged woman but, like Hillary, she's standing by her man."

But New Yorkers don't seem that forgiving.

Longtime resident Donald Trump declared: "I know Anthony Weiner. I've known him for a long time, and he's a very sick pup. What a sick pervert!"

DEMI'S KNEE-JERK REACTION

She tells pal Aniston TO GET PLASTIC SURGERY

PLASTIC surgery fan Demi Moore is telling a shaken Jennifer Aniston that she needs to have work done on her legs, say sources.

Jennifer, 44, prides herself on staying in top shape and was said to be lapping up compliments about her sexy physique on the New York set of "Squirrels to the Nuts" – until she took a call from her longtime friend Demi.

DEMI'S CANDID ADVICE HIT Jennifer like a sledgehammer because the former "Friends" star wants to look perfect for her upcoming wedding to Justin Theroux.

"Jennifer has always appreciated Demi because she does not hold back her opinions," said a close source. "But she wasn't happy when Demi told her she needed her knees fixed. Demi even gave Jen the number of her plastic surgeon.

"Now, Jen's poring over photos of her knees, wondering if there's something wrong with them."

The source adds that Jennifer worked out like a madwoman to play a stripper in her new movie, "We're the Millers," and she's still the same size she was during filming.

"Still, she's copying paparazzi photos from the Web and magnifying them on her computer so she can examine her knees," continued the source. "She thinks they look pretty good, but there is one long wrinkle above both knees that she'd like to address."

But Jennifer's fiance Justin thinks she'd be crazy to follow the knee-jerk advice of 50-year-old Demi, who is said to have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on her body.

Before she filmed "Charlie's Angels: Full Throttle," Demi reportedly underwent a full body lift, including knee surgery to remove sagging skin from the area.

Revealed a pal of the actor: "Justin thinks Jen is perfect, and the only thing wrong with her are some of her friends."

Jodie (circled) and the cast of "Full House"

Jodie Sweetin

Troubled 'Full House' beauty TELLS ALL!

ADDICTION-PLAGUED "Full House" star Jodie Sweetin checked into rehab after dropping her bid to get full custody of her youngest daughter.

The ENQUIRER has learned the troubled 31-year-old entered a $50,000-a-month residential treatment facility that once housed a top-secret military base.

She's also seeking to share joint custody of her daughter Beatrix, 2, after filing for legal separation from the tot's father, her third husband, Hollywood DJ Morty Coyle.

"When I filed the separation papers in court, I requested sole custody of Beatrix," Jodie told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

"But Morty and I sat down and talked about it, so I'm seeking only joint custody now."

Asked whether she and Coyle will divorce, Jodie – who played adorable Stephanie Tanner on the hit show from 1987 to 1995 – said: "You know, relationships are complicated."

Jodie also denied having a boyfriend, and added: "I don't think I'll ever get married again."

She had no children with her first husband, police officer Shaun Holguin, and shares custody of

Amanda Bynes MENTAL WARD MELTDOWN

Troubled blonde caught HIDING UNDER A SHEET at psych unit

MENTALLY-TROUBLED former child star Amanda Bynes seems to be following in the footsteps of Britney Spears – at her worst!

"Her case is eerily similar to what happened to Britney five years ago," said a close source. "Whereas Britney shaved her head and attacked a photographer with an umbrella, Amanda set an old lady's driveway on fire!"

Her parents are reportedly concerned the former Nickelodeon star, 27, has been showing signs of schizophrenia, and she was placed in a psychiatric facility in Ventura, Calif. Britney also was taken to a mental ward during her headline-making meltdown in 2008.

The ENQUIRER has obtained a shocking photo of Amanda hiding under a white sheet as she's wheeled between buildings by staff at the center.

THE "ALL THAT" STAR ALSO MADE headlines when she claimed to have taken a cab from New York to California and then made a fire in the driveway of 73-year-old Bonnie Braaten's home in Thousand Oaks.

Now her terrified parents have gone to court to seek a temporary conservatorship – just like Britney's parents once did after a series of increasingly crazed incidents in 2007 and 2008, including a much-publicized visit to a salon where the pop tart shaved her head.

Back in 2007, an insider told The ENQUIRER that after getting rid of her hair, "Britney had a complete breakdown and tried to kill herself. At one point she was spotted trying to walk into oncoming traffic."

daughter Zoie, 5, with second hubby Cody Herpin.

While Jodie has battled addictions to cocaine, crystal meth and alcohol in the past, she denied to The ENQUIRER that she was entering rehab.

BUT ON JULY 27, AN ENQUIRER reporter watched as the actress helped movers load furniture and clothing onto a truck at the apartment complex on Fuller Avenue in Los Angeles where she and Coyle lived.

When the truck pulled away, Jodie followed it to a secluded compound tucked away in the Hollywood Hills.

The compound, formerly known as the Lookout Mountain Air Force Station, was used by the military to house its secret nuclear bomb film unit between World War II and 1963. It boasted a soundstage, screening rooms, processing labs and a staff of filmmakers with top-secret security clearance.

The compound is now leased to the One80Center, a residential rehab facility that charges clients up to $50,000 a month to live on the grounds.

The ENQUIRER reporter watched as the truck carrying Jodie's belongings drove through a small side gate. After the movers unloaded her items, including children's furniture, Jodie paid them. Her daughter Zoie was with her.

"Since she filed separation papers from Morty, Jodie has put on a happy face in public," a pal told The ENQUIRER.

"But privately she's having a tough time.

"Jodie has a history of substance abuse, and she said that she was going to check into rehab to help her cope. Her close friends are keeping their fingers crossed that Jodie hasn't relapsed and started using again to escape the pain of her third failed marriage.

"We all just hope that she's checked into rehab as a preventative measure."

and Lynn Bynes, are trapped in a similar nightmare. They stated in their filing for temporary conservatorship that their daughter poses "a substantial risk to herself and others."

Bynes was already facing drug charges in New York, where she'd gone to court wearing multicolored wigs. She also trashed her room in the city's Ritz-Carlton hotel, racking up $9,000 in charges. Meanwhile, she's burned through a staggering $1.4 million of her $4 million fortune in just months, according to court papers.

"Amanda has been going down the same road as Britney," said the source. "Britney seems to have gotten back on track. It remains to be seen if Amanda can do the same."

The Bra Throwing Craze That's Sweeping The Nation!

American Women Are Fed Up With Uncomfortable Bras, Throwing Them Away Like Never Before!

©Copyright 2013 Four Corners Direct, Inc.

More and more women are so frustrated with their very own bras that they describe a total feeling of satisfaction when they finally get rid of them! And change to something that makes sense!

For decades it has been almost impossible to fulfill all the (reasonable) requirements of modern women – they want their bras to be REALLY comfortable (not just OK). They want it to give REAL support and lift,and women, REGARDLESS of age, cultural back-ground, shape or form.

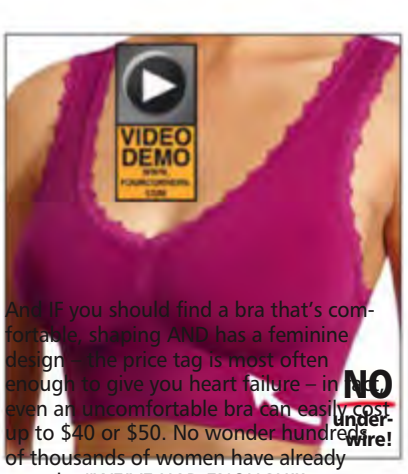

The choices have been frustrating. You find a really good-looking bra, but after just a few hours, you can't wait to take it off. Or you find that super shaping bra – but after a few hours it's starting to feel like a mammogram test that never ends! Or you find that super-comfy bra, but the look in your partner's eyes says it all ("Really? You're kidding me?").

The Secret These Women Discovered!

What these women have found is an American company that has designed a bra that's nothing less than a REAL BRA INVENTION! It's a unique design – really comfortable (many sleep in it), it shapes and lifts your bust and it has that femi-nine touch that women LACE COMFORT BRA, just love!

AND – you would think that a bra that is satisfying all these requirements would cost a fortune! NOT! Most people have a hard time to believe it, but this company is ONLY selling directly to consumers, dropping all middlemen (you can't find this bra in any stores) and are offering their bra invention for only $6.99! Their bra is called LACE COMFORT BRA and their offer is really turning the industry upside down!

A company spokesperson: "Early on we decided to do everything we could to make this bra available to the public for a fraction of normal store-prices! Most of us that work here and run this company are women, and we know the frustration of stretching a household budget!".

And IF you should find a bra that's comfortable, shaping AND has a feminine design – the price tag is most often enough to give you heart failure – in fact even an uncomfortable bra can easily cost up to $40 or $50. No wonder hundreds of thousands of women have already stated – "WE'VE HAD ENOUGH"!

What Is So Different?

1. Unique super-stretch material!

The material is woven of an extraordinary stretchy and flexible material of 92% nylon/8% spandex. The material gives this fashion import an incredible fit, and the bra adjusts to different bust sizes!

2. Extremely comfortable!

The material is so soft and comfy, it molds to your body and feels great even after 20 hours of work and play. Wide shoulder bands – no shoulder pain and no dig-in!

Instead of underwire, the bra has a wide support band underneath!

3. Controlling and bust-lifting!

Whether you're a petite size or a full figured woman, you'll get a bra that eliminates top bulges and back fat with it'sbreakthrough shaping and firming technology that smoo

4. Gorgeous looks!

Advance warning – this bra may provoke spontaneouswhistles from your partner! The feminine lace trim is the perfect comp the lifted, shapely bust it provides!

5. So easy to wear!

Super-stretch and no hooks – you slip it on or off in seconds! Easy to wash in the machine. And the quality is built to LAST!

"We've had it – up to here...!"

The 10 Most Desired Features In The Bra That So Many Women Switch To:

- Super-stretch material that is flexible enough to adjust to every body type – and to periodic body changes!
- Design that prevents sag and gives a super-lift for the bust!
- Wide shoulder bands – no dig-in!
- Construction that minimizes rolls, bulges and back fat!
- No underwire – but still very good support!

NANCY TAKES TURN FOR WORSE – after visiting Ronnie's grave

Frail former first lady, 92, HAS CHRONIC BREATHING PROBLEMS – sources

BELOVED former first lady Nancy Reagan is facing a new medical nightmare that could hasten her death, say sources.

The brave 92-year-old is suffering from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, which makes it difficult to breathe.

The debilitating disease recently forced her to cancel a charity lunch date with old pal Betsy Bloomingdale.

Sadly, the incurable ailment can be "incapacitating," says one expert.

"It is a slowly progressive lung disease," explained Dr. Samuel Jacobson, a pulmonary specialist based in Boca Raton, Fla. "Patients often die from other conditions complicated by COPD."

Mrs. Reagan gets around with the aid of a wheelchair and a nurse. Above, Nancy with the love of her life in 1981

THE CONDITION CAN PREVENT patients from performing even basic activities, such as walking, cooking or even caring for themselves.

"This is a relatively new medical problem for Nancy," said an insider. "But it's deeply disturbing, given her age and how frail she's become."

Sources revealed to The ENQUIRER that Nancy's COPD was one of the main reasons she was unable to attend the April funeral of the Reagans' dear friend, former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

On May 9, Nancy appeared frail and shriveled when a nurse accompanied her to lunch with Larry King and his wife Shawn at a Beverly Hills restaurant.

And on June 5, a somber Nancy was photographed in a wheelchair as she commemorated the ninth anniversary of her husband Ronald Reagan's death, placing roses at his grave site.

"After that, her health seemed to take a turn for the worse," said the source.

She rarely gets out, but on July 16, she was spotted being assisted from a car to a wheelchair at The London West Hollywood hotel in L.A.

Nancy previously broke several ribs in a fall at her home in March 2012, and she suffered a fractured pelvis and sacrum in a 2008 tumble.

Her deteriorating condition isn't being helped by family members who are said to already be fighting over her $15 million estate, as The ENQUIRER reported.

"The kids should be spending more time with their mom and less time bickering," noted the source. "They may not have much longer with her."

Monica Lewinsky began her affair with Bill Clinton in November 1995

Monica & Bill SEX TAPE SHOCKER!

REVEALED: Explicit recording Clintons THOUGHT HAD BEEN DESTROYED

A BOMBSHELL sex tape that former White House intern Monica Lewinsky made for ex-president Bill Clinton has been obtained by The ENQUIRER – and insiders say it could torpedo Hillary Clinton's expected run for the White House!

The steamy tape, along with other explosive documents and mementoes related to Clinton's scandalous affair with Monica, was meant to be destroyed.

But a confidential source who claims to have been hired as a "cleaner" by individuals close to Monica has kept the sensational material under lock and key for the past 15 years.

"I WAS SUPPOSED TO SHRED everything in late 1998, but for some reason I kept this material," the "cleaner" told The ENQUIRER.

Linda Tripp

Betty Currie

Vernon Jordan

"I worked completely off the books. There is no paperwork."

The audiotape recorded by Monica drips with sexual innuendo and reveals how she ranged from playing hot-blooded vixen to smitten schoolgirl and jealous lover with Clinton.

Releasing it now could explode in the face of former first lady Hillary as she weighs a run for the presidency in 2016, according to one political insider.

"The Clintons thought this sex tape was dead and buried," said the source. "If this tape and other material are surfacing now, imagine what else must be out there?

"This could be just the tip of the iceberg and the most embarrassing 'bimbo eruption' of all for the Clintons."

Monica was just 21 when she arrived at the White House in July 1995 as an unpaid intern for Clinton's chief of staff.

She's claimed her sexual relationship with the president began in November 1995, and the following month she landed a paid position in

Secret LOVE LETTERS humiliate Hillary

AFTER then-President Bill Clinton ended their romance, a heartbroken Monica Lewinsky expressed her feelings of rejection in a bombshell letter written in December 1997. Here are excerpts of that letter – obtained exclusively by The ENQU it was so sad seeing you last night because i was so angry with you that you once again rejected me and yet, all i wanted was for everyone else in the room to disappear and for you to hold me.

i loved you with all of my heart, bill. i wanted to be with you all of the time. most recently in london, i walked the streets thinking how content i would be to walk the streets at your side while you spoke of things past - filled the air and my soul with your knowledge of history...

i realized yesterday when (Clinton's secretary) betty (Currie) told me you 'couldn't' see me, what was really going on - you want me out of your life. i guess the signs have been clear for awhile - not wanting to see me and rarely calling...

for the life of me, i can't understand how you could be so kind and so cruel to me. when i think of all the times you filled my heart and soul with sunshine and then think of the times you made me cry for hours and want to die, i feel nauseous...

i knew it would hurt to say goodbye to you; i just never thought it would have to be on paper. take care.

Insiders say the new revelations about her husband's relationship with Monica – including the intimate notes and gushing, romantic cards below – could sideline Hillary's presidential aspirations

DEPRESSED and seemingly at her wit's end, Monica Lewinsky showed her disappointment in yet another note to then-President Clinton. Here are excerpts from that note, which was obtained exclusively by The ENQUIRER:

What really happened with me coming back? Why was it OK to do this to me?

What did I do to deserve this? Why did nobody incur your wrath for not doing what they were told? I am seriously depressed because of everything that has happened. I am so sensitive right now that I absolutely flew off the handle last week in trying to get to see you (the 60 seconds was nice, but you have no idea what I had to go through just to get that; how many times I had to bug you-know-who).

I have lost profoundly both professionally and personally, and in a toss-up, our personal relationship changing has caused me more pain the Office of Legislative Affairs that allowed her to carry mail to the Oval Office.

But her interactions with Clinton raised eyebrows, and in April 1996 Monica was banished to a job in the Pentagon, where she befriended co-worker Linda Tripp. In the summer of 1996, Monica started spilling details of her affair with Clinton to Tripp, who eventually began to secretly record their phone calls.

Monica likely recorded the audio-tape obtained by The ENQUIRER in November 1997, but she played it over the phone for Tripp – who recorded it – on Nov. 20.

A cassette tape from Monica was delivered to the White House the following day, according to a report by the Office of the Independent Counsel Ken Starr, who investigated the affair, known as "Zippergate."

On the tape obtained by The ENQUIRER, Monica at one point teases the commander in chief: "I could take my clothes off and start... well...I know you wouldn't enjoy that? But, I hope to see you later, and I hope you will follow my script and do what I want."

Incredibly, the sexually explicit tape isn't the only blockbuster material that the "cleaner" has shared with The ENQUIRER.

Since Monica was removed from her White House job in April 1996 her meetings with Clinton were scarce, but that did not deter delivering gifts – and tapes – through presidential secretary Betty Currie – and then reminding the president who they were from, somewhat vulgarly.

"First, I forgot to tell you that the Gingko Blowjoba, or whatever it's called, was from me," Monica wrote in one note to Clinton.

"I also included those new Zinc throat lozenges which are rumored to be great."

In a series of pleading notes (see excerpts), an obviously distraught Monica pesters Clinton to make time for her and begs him to explain why he ended their illicit romance.

The notes also reveal how Monica manipulated Currie, into acting as her go-between, delivering gifts and letters to Clinton, and setting up their illicit Oval Office trysts.

WHILE CLINTON MANAGED TO REMAIN president despite being impeached over repercussions from the affair, insiders say the shockingly graphic tape and notes now threaten to rock his 37-year marriage as well as his wife's political career.

"This is a huge embarrassment for Hillary – not only personally but politically," said the source.

"But now it's her future on the line, and this will be thrown in her face at every opportunity if she decides to run for president.

"For Hillary, her husband's affair with Monica is a nightmare that will never end."

WHAT MONICA TOLD BILL

ALL THE JUICY DETAILS

IN the midst of their headline-making affair, Monica Lewinsky poured out her heart to then-President Bill Clinton on an audiotape in November 1997. At the time, she'd already been sent to work in the Pentagon and was hoping that Clinton advisor Vernon Jordan would get her a high-powered job in New York City. The tape has been obtained exclusively by The ENQUIRER, and here it is, in its 3-minutes, 47-seconds entirety, in Monica's own words.

The lovebirds, before the scandal erupted

Hi, handsome.

I couldn't bear the idea of sitting down to write you another note.

So I thought I would tape it, I hope that's ok. When I spoke to (Clinton's secretary) Betty (Currie) yesterday, she told me that she thought you were leaving too early Saturday morning for me to sneak over for just 15 minutes. So since I know you will be alone tomorrow evening, I have two proposals for you, neither of which is you not seeing me.

So just deal with it!

Now the first thing that has to happen is that you need to pre-plan with Betty that you will leave the office at, I don't know, at 7, 7:30 so that everyone else who hates me that causes me lots of trouble goes home.

Then you quickly sneak back and then in the meantime I quickly sneak over and then we can have a nice little visit for, you know, 15 minutes or half an hour. Whatever you want.

But I would really, really, really, really, really like that and appreciate it, especially since everything that happened last week. Because last Thursday was an absolute nightmare, um, and I really don't want to go through that again, and I want to see you, but 60 seconds was just not enough – even though you did look very handsome.

And my other proposal, you have to remember that two years ago you had told me that I could bump into you and a group of your friends when you were going to the movies.

And I then decided not to because some of your staff was going to be there, and I didn't think it was going to be a good idea. Little did I know at the point it really didn't matter. I should have just gone ahead and done it anyway.

So what I was thinking is that you could make that up to me.

And maybe we could go over and watch a movie together and just have kind of, I don't know, boxed dinners or something like that.

And then that way we don't have to deal with the problem of me…of there being a record of me going upstairs and we can spend some time together and see a good movie.

So I don't know, those are two proposals and you can't refuse me because I'm too cute and adorable and soon I won't be here anymore to pop over.

I'm hoping you will hear this and you will choose which one you want to do and go tell Betty and then she can call me and let me know so I don't have to stress out all day and I don't have to call her every two hours and bug her because, I know you will find this very hard to believe, but I can be a pain in the ass sometimes.

I'm very persistent, but um…I really want to see you.

And that's that, so I don't know…this is fun talking on a tape.

I could take all my clothes off and start…well…I know you wouldn't enjoy that?

But, I hope to see you later, and I hope you will just follow my script and do what I want.

Because that will make me very happy and that is something I haven't been in a while.

I hope to see you later and we can 'tawlk' about cawfee and dawgs. I don't know if you ever watch "Saturday Night Live," but that is what it's from.

Ok, enough talking your ear off, I'll see you later.

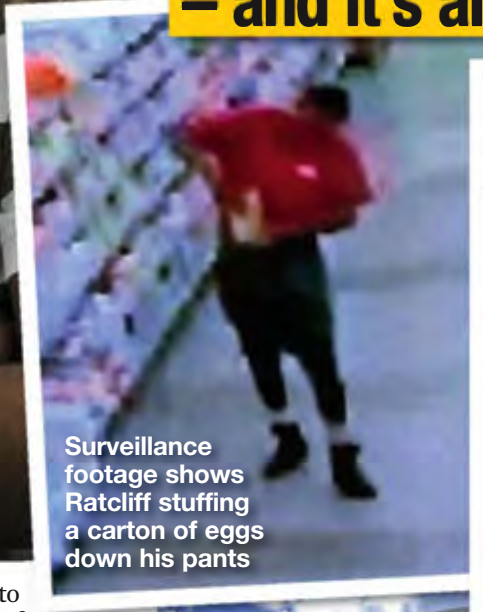

Bye.

SUPERMARKET SMACKDOWN

Store manager tackles suspected thief – and it's all caught on camera

"It's about time honest people fought back"

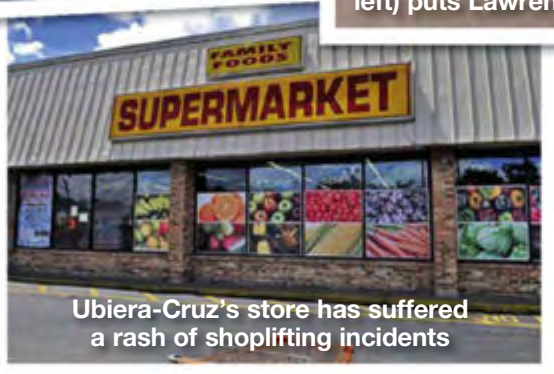

Surveillance footage shows Ratcliff stuffing a carton of eggs down his pants

Fed-up store owner Lenin Ubiera-Cruz (also far left) puts Lawrence Ratcliff in a choke hold

Ubiera-Cruz's store has suffered a rash of shoplifting incidents

A STORE manager talking to a TV reporter about a rash of thefts at his market nabbed a shoplifter – while TV cameras were rolling!

"I wasn't scared. I was mad!" Lenin Ubiera-Cruz told The ENQUIRER.

"I was fed up with people thinking they could steal from us and get away with it."

The incident unfolded on June 21 as Lenin stood outside his family's store, the Family Foods Supermarket, in Orlando, Fla., while telling a local TV reporter about four recent thefts there.

"People are always coming in and stealing from us. It's a huge problem," said Lenin, 28, who came to the U.S. from the Dominican Republic in 2007.

DURING THE TV INTERVIEW, SHARP-EYED LENIN spotted a guy inside the store who'd stolen some items two days earlier.

He recognized 48-year-old Lawrence Ratcliff from the market's surveillance cameras, which had shown him shoplifting $37 worth of groceries, including a carton of eggs that he stuffed down the front of his pants.

Lenin broke off the interview to dash inside the store and grab Ratcliff. Then he marched the shoplifter outside and told him: "You are going to the floor." As the TV camera rolled, Lenin – who's 5-foot-11 and 165 pounds – wrapped his arms around the 6-foot-1 thief, lifted him off his feet and slammed him to the pavement.

Lenin sat down behind the shocked Ratcliff, put one arm around his neck and held him in a choke hold. Then Lenin calmly looked up at the TV camera and smiled.

He later explained that he'd learned the takedown technique as a teen.

"I used to practice it with my brother when I was 14 and 15, but I'd never done it for real before," Lenin said.

After 911 was called, Lenin patiently sat on the ground with his arm locked around Ratcliff, who kept insisting: "I didn't steal (anything)."

But Lenin got tired of waiting for police to arrive, so he stood Ratcliff up while another store employee tried to handcuff him.

RATCLIFF KEPT PULLING HIS ARMS AWAY, SO Lenin kicked his feet out from under him, causing the shoplifter to land heavily on his rear. At that point, they were able to cuff him. "You can't do that! It's illegal," Ratcliff insisted.

Finally, an Orlando police officer arrived. After viewing the store's surveillance tape, he arrested Ratcliff and hauled him off to jail.

Ratcliff pleaded no contest to shoplifting and was sentenced to five days in jail, fined $273 and ordered to stay away from the store.

Meanwhile, Lenin is being hailed as a hero.

He said: "People told me: Good for you, it's about time somebody stood up to these thieves. They go around thinking they can get something for nothing. It's about time honest people fought back."

MELISSA GILBERT MIDLIFE CRISIS

Revealed! Why newlywed 'Prairie' star is swapping TinselTown for Midwest

IN the throes of a devastating midlife crisis, former "Little House on the Prairie" star Melissa Gilbert has decided to ditch Hollywood, an insider says.

Now 49, TV's beloved "Half-Pint" and her third hubby, "thirtysomething" star Timothy Busfield, plan to settle in rural Michigan where she'll undergo hormone replacement therapy, the insiders add.

"Melissa has been working in Hollywood since she was little, and she's had it," a source close to the actress told The ENQUIRER.

> "I'm ready to live somewhere that I don't have to be a size two"

"She's going through a midlife crisis, and she's ready to start a new life in the Midwest with Timothy."

Busfield, 56, grew up in Lansing, Mich., and the couple – who stunned pals with their quickie wedding on April 24 – is said to own a Victorian-style home in the area.

Melissa's son, Michael

HE'S PRODUCING AND directing an ABC drama, "Mind Games," in Chicago, and the plan is for him to spend weekends in Michigan with Melissa after working in the Windy City during the week.

Meanwhile, Melissa has been writing on her blog about suffering from the effects of menopause, saying she's dealing with "weepiness, sleeplessness, weight gain in my midsection, slow down of metabolism."

Melissa (circled) and the cast of "Little House on the Prairie"

The actress recently married actor/director Timothy Busfield

Melissa says she plans to take bioidentical hormone replacement therapy

According to her blog, she's found a doctor in Michigan to administer bioidentical hormone replacement therapy, a natural treatment that counteracts the effects of menopause. And she also sounds anxious to escape the TinselTown rat race.

"I'm ready to live somewhere that I don't have to practically kill myself to be a size two or remain looking like I haven't aged past forty," Melissa wrote.

She noted that she's also looking for:

"Great fishing within walking distance, and reading on my screened-in porch."

The actress left Los Angeles on July 20 and stopped in Texas to visit her 24-year-old son Dakota, whose father is her first hubby, actor Bo Brinkman. Then she headed to Michigan, where she'll live in the Victorian-style house with 17-year-old son Michael, whose dad is her second hubby, actor Bruce Boxleitner.

As The ENQUIRER has reported, friends feared Melissa – who competed on Season 14 of "Dancing with the Stars" – rushed to the altar with Busfield after splitting from French beau Thierry Gauchet.

Busfield's first marriage ended in 1986, and his 2008 split from his second wife led to him losing his Malibu home to foreclosure in January 2011.

On a more disturbing note, the former star of "The West Wing" was accused of sexual harassment by a 17-year-old Minnesota high school student in a March 1994 civil suit.

The case was settled out of court, but last year another woman accused Busfield of sexual battery after she claimed he groped her in a Hollywood movie theater. In the end, no charges were filed.

Bruce Boxleitner

And her pal said: "Melissa couldn't be Timothy. He helped her find the Michigan doctor who's treating her – and she loves him deeply."

HEART DISEASE & Vietnam vets

Vietnam veterans suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder are more than twice as likely as those without the disorder to develop heart disease later in life.

An interesting U.S. study of male twins who served in the Vietnam War led to the startling discovery.

The rate of heart disease was nearly 23 percent in the brother with PTSD, compared to about 13 percent in the one without PTSD.

Experts say additional research is needed to better understand the association between PTSD and heart disease so treatments and prevention strategies can be developed.

New drug for HOT FLASHES

Good news, ladies. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved the first nonhormonal treatment for menopause-related hot flashes.

A study on nearly 1,200 postmenopausal women showed that the drug Brisdelle reduced moderate to severe hot flashes.

"There are a significant number of women who suffer from hot flashes associated with menopause and who cannot or do not want to use hormonal treatments," says Dr. Hylton V. Joffe, a director in the FDA's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research.

For them, Brisdelle could be an effective alternative.

FDA DRUG ALERT

Warning! A widely-used blood pressure drug can cause severe and chronic diarrhea, weight loss – and even hospitalization, cautions the FDA.

The generic drug olmesartan medoxomil – marketed as Benicar, Benicar HCT, Azor and Tribenzor – can trigger intestinal problems months to years after patients begin taking it.

If patients start developing symptoms, the drug should be discontinued and replaced with another blood pressure medication.

Dr. Joseph Murray of the Mayo Clinic advises physicians to avoid prescribing this blood pressure medication for patients with a history of chronic diarrhea or celiac disease.

Multiple birth WARNING

Women who give birth to multiple babies following in vitro fertilization might have a higher breast cancer risk than those having one baby or none at all, according to a new study.

Researchers in Amsterdam found that mothers of multiple babies had a 44 percent higher breast cancer risk than single-birth mothers.

The findings of this study suggest that the increased risk may not be the multiple pregnancy itself but a maternal trait that makes certain women more likely to have multiple births and breast cancer. Women who underwent IVF but did not have babies did not have an increased breast cancer risk.

Working evening and night shifts can interfere with women's reproductive health and fertility.

A large-scale British study found that women working varying daytime, evening and night shifts had a whopping 80 percent higher rate of low fertility compared to those working regular hours.

What's more, they also had a 33 percent higher rate of irregular periods.

Surprisingly, women who worked nights only had a higher rate of miscarriage, according to University of Southampton's Dr. Linden Stocker.

FAMOUS QUOTES FROM YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE

Cryptograms are coded messages. To solve the Cryptogram, each coded letter must be replaced by the answer letter in the box overhead. When you solve the code for a letter, write the answer letter in the box everywhere the coded letter appears. Look for common words and letter patterns to break the code. Words like AND, I, THE and A are found frequently. Common word endings are ING, S and E.

The super-boost in volume makes it so easy to join conversations from a distance, enjoy nature, listen to TV and get back in the game!

Here's one U.S. company that's working overtime (and hiring!) to fulfill all the orders that are coming in from all over the U.S.! Americans of all ages are lining up to get their hands on their All New Ear-Pro IQ – the virtually invisible Sound Amplifier with crystal clearsou

It used to cost a fortune to get a personal sound amplifier with good sound quality. However, one company is changing that, and has turned the industry upside down with a top-of-the-line solution, for less than $20.

How can they do this…. The company explains, "Personal Sound Amplifiers have been around for a longtime. What has changed the most is the design and size. Each year they get smaller and smaller, yet still retain their core ability to amplify sound for anyone."

"Our latest sound amplification device, Ear-Pro IQ™, offers the same advanced technology, but at a price anyone can afford. We also cut out the middleman and sell directly to the consumer. We buy in large quantities and pass the savings on to the buyer. Simplyput, there's no reason to pay a fortune any longer!" The public's response from men and women to Ear-Pro IQ has been overwhelming. "We are sometimes out of stock for a few days. We can't make them as fast as people are buying them."

The company believes the Ear-Pro IQ is highly-popular right now for 3 distinct reasons:

1) The sound quality is exceptional. Most people who buys Ear-Pro IQ in the first place. Because they want tomake hearing other people, TVs, radios etc, easier. And the advanced micro-electronic amplification technology in each Ear-Pro IQ does not disappoint. Buyers quickly see that Ear-ProIQ truly delivers crystal-clearsound reception.

2) It's nearly invisible. Many people are sensitive about having a real hearing device to be seen. So Ear-Pro IQ was designed to beultra-discreet. Its clear tube design makes it almost invisible. Ear-Pro IQ users report that it's so nearly invisible that o rges your hearing – increases the weakest sound – at a super low price that anyone can afford. Ear-Pro IQ takes you from ordinary hearing to SUPER HEARING!

Those are the 3 reasons why most people upgrade to Ear-Pro IQ. But after they start using the amazing device, their life literally changes. With Ear-Pro IQ, all thisbecomes a reality:

They can hear everything easier… the TV, the stereo, the car radio – without turning it up and disturbingothers.

Many can join in distant conversations they used to avoid – and they don't miss a word.

They can bring it to the theater or the movies and not miss any of the action.

Lots of users can hear the doorbell, a knock on the front door, or a car horn while driving.

- The sound clarity will blow your mind (at this price, it's really amazing)!
- The clear tube makes it almost invisible!
- Incredibly discreet design – only you know it's there!
- Small, lightweight and very comfortable!
- Fits the contour of your ear!
- Supercharges your hearing – increases even the weakest sounds!
- No endless frequent battery changes, thanks to energy-efficient construction!
- Listen to conversations without problems!
- Sound so clear you can hear a pin drop!
- Adjustable volume control!

They can hear lots of beautiful sounds from nature. And they're easily hear what others are saying – even if they're far away.

Each Ear-Pro IQ has adjustable volume control, and each unit fits both the left and right ear. Each one also comes complete with battery that holds approximately 100 hours of listening time. You also get 6 rubberizedearplugs tomized fit, regardless of ear size.

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot this week

Breaking Bad (Season Premiere)

Sunday, Aug. 11, 9 p.m. ET, AMC

"Bad" is at its best with these final eight episodes of the Emmy- and Peabody Award-winning crime drama. In the premiere, Walt (Bryan Cranston) and his wife Skyler (Anna Gunn) are living a cleaner life with their lucrative car wash business and Walt and Jesse's (Aaron Paul) meth-making days behind them. But can Walt wash all the blood off his hands when his DEA agent brother-in-law Hank (Dean Norris) finally discovers that Walt is the notorious Heisenberg that Hank's been tracking so long and is responsible for so many deaths? When these two face off, it is a powerhouse moment "BB" fans will not want to miss!

Low Winter Sun (New Show!)

Mark Strong

Sunday, Aug. 11, 10 p.m. ET, AMC

Oh, what a tangled web cops weave when they try to deceive Internal Affairs. Tonight, Detroit Detectives Frank Agnew (Mark Strong) and Joe Geddes (Lennie James) murder Geddes' dirty cop partner, whom Frank believes killed the woman he loved. Frank, being a good man, wrestles with his conscience about what they've done. But Joe's morality blows with the wind along with his loyalties. So who can Frank trust? Nobody. Because everyone in the department is looking out for number one. And so is rising crime lord Damon Callis, who makes his own murderous move. Edgy, intriguing and emotionally complex, "Low Winter Sun" rises above the competition as TV's most promising new cop drama. Athena Karkanis also stars.

Amish Mafia (Season Premiere)

Tuesday, Aug. 13, 9 p.m. ET, Discovery Channel

Lebanon Levi and his team of enforcers are back protecting the Amish community of Lancaster, Pa. This season, Levi is forced to stand his ground to keep his position when several rivals, including the newly unshunned Merlin, are determined to take away Levi's power and bring him down. It won't be easy for Levi because his right-hand man Alvin is in a Florida jail and Jolin has left the crew as well. With the help of Caleb, can Levi keep the peace and his authority too? Season 2 of this hard-edged Amish reality drama will tell.

The "Amish Mafia" cast

Travis Schuldt & Diane Neal

This Magic Moment (Made-for-TV Movie Premiere)

Saturday, Aug. 17, 9 p.m. ET, Hallmark Movie Channel

Diane Neal ("Law & Order: SVU") stars as Hollywood actress Helena Harris, who comes to the small town of Stone's Throw to film her latest movie and ends up causing a four-way "Hollywood meets small town" romantic traffic jam. Helena befriends local video store owner Clark Gable (Travis Schuldt, "Scrubs") and talks him into posing as her new love interest to make her co-star Roberto Molinez (Vincent Spano) jealous. Roberto then goes after Clark's former love (Alaina Huffman). But that only helps Helena and Clark's fake romance spark into a real one in this magical small-town love story.

TRAVOLTA'S SITCOM SECRET

Real reason HE'S REUNITING WITH KIRSTIE ALLEY

IN a desperate attempt to make fans forget his numerous gay scandals, John Travolta agreed to co-star in Kirstie Alley's new sitcom, an insider says.

The 59-year-old married father of two – who rocketed to fame on the classic sitcom "Welcome Back, Kotter" – hopes that when he returns to his comedy roots, fans will be distracted from the lawsuits and sordid stories that have plagued him.

The duo in 1989's "Look Who's Talking"

"JOHN WANTS to win back the hearts of his longtime fans with comedy," revealed a pal.

"He's hoping that by playing a macho guy who beds Kirstie's character he'll be able to put some of his scandals behind him."

On "Kirstie" – which debuts Dec. 4 on TV Land – Alley plays Madison Banks, a Broadway star whose life is upended when the son she gave up at birth (Eric Petersen) comes back into her life. Travolta plays a stagehand on Madison's Broadway show who continues to pester her after a one-night stand.

The source says the handsome actor believes that by reteaming with his "Look Who's Talking" and "Look Who's Talking Too" co-star, he'll be able to reclaim his leading man image.

But it will be no easy task.

Last August, The ENQUIRER broke the story about Doug Gotterba, Travolta's former pilot, who said he was the star's lover for six years in the 1980s.

Travolta was also rocked by lawsuits from male masseurs who charged the actor with inappropriate behavior, and The ENQUIRER interviewed John's former personal assistant Joan Edwards, who said she worked for him from 1978 to 1994 and said: "Of course I knew he was gay."

The two old pals will co-star in "Kirstie"

Tremendous teen

The family of 17-year-old Drew Scott must be proud (A Whiz at Biz, July 8). The ENQUIRER article just goes to show how great teenagers can be. How nice to read good things about the future generation. Here's hoping Drew is a millionaire by the time he's 21! – Melanie D., Susquehanna, Pa.

$50 Letter of the Week

Count your blessings, Snooki

Snooki, even though it's going to be awhile before your new house is finished, thank your future in-laws for letting you and Jionni and the baby live in their house (Snooki's Going Stir Crazy, July 8). You have plenty of years ahead of you to cook your own meals and do your own laundry.

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

MACAULAY'S BIZARRE NEW ROMANCE

– Culkin's NEW FLAME IS STILL CLOSE TO HER EX

"HOME ALONE" star Macaulay Culkin has a new girlfriend, but pals fear the relationship will cause the troubled actor more heartache and send him off the deep end!

Culkin, 32, now shares his SoHo loft with rocker Jordana "Binki" Shapiro, who was previously involved with a friend of Mac's and remains super-close to him.

"Binki used to date Mac's good pal Adam Green of the band The Moldy Peaches," said a close pal.

"She and Adam have formed a group, and things have gotten complicated because Mac wants to join it as a backup singer."

Unfortunately, the former child star doesn't seem able to carry a tune.

"Mac wants to start a new career as a singer and has been taking lessons," said the pal. "But he can't hold a note. He's not good enough to perform professionally, and both Adam and Binki know it."

When Binki broke the news to Culkin, he flipped out, says the source.

"MAC GOT INTO A HUGE ARGUMENT with Binki and Adam," revealed the pal. "He screamed at them, 'I'm a damn good singer! I've been t two years!' "

Now Binki, 24, who earned raves for her album with the band Little Joy, is worried this setback will push Mac over the edge, says the source. As The ENQUIRER previously reported, the troubled actor has battled addictions to heroin and prescription painkillers. Culkin's representative has denied the star's drug addiction.

"Binki fears that being rejected as a backup singer could make Mac turn to hard drugs once again," said the pal.

"Besides that, it's likely to place an enormous strain on their relationship."

TRUCKLOADS OF LOVE

Drivers HELP RESCUE DOGS FIND A NEW HOME

THEIR hearts are as big as their rigs – and in the past eight years, the truck drivers of Operation Roger have shuttled more than 700 animals to new homes.

The volunteer organization was founded by then-driver Sue Wiese in 2005 after Hurricane Katrina left hundreds of pets without a home.

"My heart was just breaking from all the horror stories about pets being lost or abandoned," Wiese, a 70-year-old grandmother, told The ENQUIRER.

"I was driving down the road praying: 'Lord, what can I do? I'm just a truck driver.' Then I heard one word – transport.

"I got to thinking about groups that move pets around the country, and I thought, Hey, why not get truckers to do it? We're on the road all the time. We'd be a perfect fit!"

Wiese called a radio show that was a favorite of truck drivers and asked if anyone would be interested in ferrying pets across country.

Operation Roger was founded by former trucker Sue Wiese

Trucker Myke Rock prepares to bring Daisy May to her new home

"BEFORE THE SHOW ended, I had 12 truckers call in saying they'd like to help," recalled Wiese, who retired five years ago after logging two million miles on the road.

Wiese named her fledging group Operation Roger after her recently deceased toy Manchester terrier.

The first pet to benefit from Operation Roger was a Schipperke that was picked up in St. Louis, Mo., and driven to Tucson, Ariz.

Next, the group came to the aid of Tyson, a blind long-haired dachshund that ended up in Dallas, Texas, after Hurricane Katrina. Tyson was driven to Jackson, Miss., and reunited with his overjoyed owner.

"When Tyson heard his owner's voice, he immediately ran towards her, even though he was blind," said Wiese.

> "People are so thankful that we're doing this"

"People are so thankful that we're doing this. They are often in tears when we get their pets back to them."

Volunteer drivers check the group's website, www.operationroger.com, for pets that need to be moved.

"Truckers can't do a lot of volunteer work in their own communities because they're rarely home," said Wiese. "This is their way of giving back."

Over the years, the group – which charges just $25 for its services – has transported dogs, cats, ferrets, hamsters, gerbils, chinchillas, rabbits and even pet rats.

Its longest mission involved Shelby, a 5-year-old Pekingese rescued from an abusive home in Oklahoma. When a family in Alaska offered to adopt him, trucker Dave Binz stepped in.

He picked up Shelby in Enid, and then headed to Houston, Texas, where his truck was loaded with freight bound for Alaska. Nine days and 4,500 miles later, Binz dropped Shelby off with his new family in Tok.

"I did it because I love dogs and helping people," he said.
